Foreword

by Åke Jacobson

When the Extraordinary General Assembly in Tampere, Finland, in 2001, decided to make the World Orienteering Championships (WOC) an annual event, the IOF Congress and Ordinary General Assembly became linked to the WOC every second year. When the first annual WOC was held in Västerås, Sweden, in 2004, the IOF Congress was, for the first time in the history of the IOF, organised in conjunction with the WOC.

The main reason for this was to reduce expenditure, as many who normally attend Congress also go to WOC. At that time, it was also expected that the number of federations present at the Congress would increase.

The 26th IOF Congress and Ordinary General Assembly in Lausanne, Switzerland, will be the fifth in conjunction with the World Orienteering Championships and it may be useful to reflect and consider what effects the model has had on the quality of the democratic process as represented by the proceedings at the General Assembly.

The main purpose, to minimise costs, has no doubt been fulfilled. The number of delegates and national federations present at the General Assembly, however, has not increased significantly. In addition, to a certain extent, the delegations have in recent years tended to be comprised of people engaged in the national teams taking part in the WOC rather than people from the federations' political structure. One effect of this has been a rather high "turn over" in terms of delegates from one Congress to the next. From this follows reduced continuity in terms of familiarity with the topics for resolution on the agenda of the General Assembly and the Congress at large.

A WOC week is crowded with activities. Apart from all WOC related events, there are public races competing for the attention of those present. Congress delegates therefore rarely meet except during scheduled meetings (Pre-General Assembly Seminar and General Assembly). In the past, before 2004, delegates and the IOF leadership stayed together for several days, specifically for the Congress, which gave ample time to get to know each other and to discuss informally many different matters in between meetings. It was also more customary for the political leadership of the national federations to take part in the Congress, which provided an excellent opportunity to build continuity. The entire group became, in that way, more knowledgeable in terms of the history surrounding issues tabled for discussion.

The linking of the Congress to the WOC may well have weakened the quality of the democratic process. The issue has been touched upon by the IOF Council on a couple of occasions during this Congress period but it has not been a matter for more detailed discussion and conclusion. It is perhaps time to make a more comprehensive evaluation of the current model and consider a return to a model where the Congress is organised separately from other activities.

Another more directly WOC related issue has dominated the agenda during the Congress period now coming to an end – the future programme of the WOC itself, known by the acronym WIF, or WOC in the Future. The General Assembly in Trondheim in 2010 gave a positive indication to a number of principles for the programme, among them the fact that the future programme should be more diverse and hence more attractive to spectators and better suited to make it interesting to watch on TV.

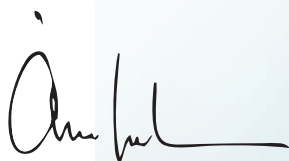

A comprehensive, open process with internet based questionnaires, hearings, and presentations was organised to ensure that as many as possible of the stakeholders had an opportunity to provide input and influence the outcome. In the end, it became obvious that the differences in views between the federations were considerable, and it was not yet time to make drastic changes to the programme. Of concern was the different views between federations in early stages of development and those having come further, but views also differed between federations in similar stages of development.

Erik Tobé, the first IOF President once commented that it is easy to make decisions fit for few – more of a challenge to find solutions that a vast majority, across the world, can feel comfortable with. Erik experienced this in the 1960s with some 15 member federations making up the IOF. The situation today, with 73 members on all continents, has not made it less of a challenge.

Erik Tobé's recipe, small and continuous steps forward, is perhaps still the best way to proceed in our times too. Yet one cannot always wait two years – for the next General Assembly – until the next small step is taken. The IOF Council must be given the credibility to make such decisions when felt appropriate.

During this Congress period we came to the end of the First Fifty Years of the history of the IOF. Our vision, as we begin the next fifty years, is that orienteering becomes a truly global sport with presence and credibility on the world sporting stage. We have already made significant progress in this regard, and with patience and good cooperation within the IOF I am sure we can realise our vision.

I want to express my gratitude to all orienteering officials around the world for your untiring and enthusiastic work. Your effort is a guarantee that orienteering will continue to develop. Finally a sincere thanks to the Secretariat. Your energy and support has been invaluable to all of us.

President, IOF

Biennial Report 2010–2012

Strategic Directions 2006–2012 – time to assess

The 2010–2012 Congress Period marks the end of the six years covered by Strategic Directions 2006–2012, endorsed at the XXIII IOF Ordinary General Assembly in Aarhus, Denmark, in 2006. It is time to make an assessment of the past six years as a basis for the future.

To promote the adopted vision that orienteering be recognised as a truly global sport; attractive to all; present and credible on the world sporting stage; and included in the Olympic Summer and Winter Games, the IOF has sought to achieve three key goals, namely, Orienteering a Global Sport, A World Series of events with increased attraction value well established and Presence and increased credibility on the world sporting stage.

The implementation of the strategy has been steered by detailed Activity Plans prepared for each two-year Congress period. To supplement the Activity Plans, specific commission remits have been developed by the Council in consultation with the respective commission. To ensure the realisation of the desired goals, the Council has continuously reviewed and evaluated both the overall activity plan and the achievements of each commission.

Over the past six years, considerable progress has been made in each of the four strategic areas: Regional Development and Co-operation, Attractive World Events, Promotion and Marketing towards Olympic Inclusion, and Strong Management and Funding. However, further work in the coming strategy period will be required to achieve some of the goals set for 2012.

Regional initiatives bring results

The Activity Plan for 2010–2012 comprised five main actions to support the development of the sport around the world. These were:

- Support regional working groups and provide guidance in all regions
- Support development programmes in Africa/Asia/South America to build local capacity
- Continue supporting O-Ringen Academies
- Drive, promote and coordinate member federations' support of developing federations
- Take initiatives to increase the number of members

In Asia, Europe and South America the regional working groups have continued their work to develop various aspects of orienteering in their respective region. In Oceania, the co-operation between Australia and New Zealand continues, and the co-operation between the countries in North America now also includes Barbados. Discussions regarding the feasibility of introducing IOF Regional Championships in Africa have been initiated.

The European Working Group has continued to manage the regional competition programme and, in 2011, the competition rules for European Championships in all four disciplines were revised. In terms of the development and expansion of orienteering in the region, considerable progress has been made in South East Europe and the Mediterranean area, where the South East European Working Group and the Confederation of Mediterranean Orienteering Federations have provided development support to both current and potential IOF members.

In Asia, the orienteering federations have actively promoted ski orienteering and worked to establish Asian Ski Orienteering Championships. With the aim of raising the standard of Asian elite athletes, the Asian Working Group has taken the initiative to organise a training camp in conjunction with the Asian Orienteering Championships to be held in China in August 2012.

In North America, Canada has stimulated development in Barbados by preparing and updating maps and organising several clinics.

In South America, an extensive development project comprising Argentina, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Paraguay and Uruguay has been undertaken by the Spanish Orienteering Federation.

The partnership between the IOF, the Swedish Orienteering Federation and the organisers of the O-Ringen orienteering week has continued and the programme of the O-Ringen Academy International has matured.

New membership structure comes into effect

The General Assembly held in Trondheim, Norway, in 2010, agreed to introduce a new IOF membership structure with only one membership category, member. Provisional membership is made available to federations in the early stages of development. This change to the IOF Statutes was made with a view to increasing the number of members taking part in the IOF's most prestigious events, emphasising regional development and co-operation, and positioning the sport for inclusion in the Olympic Games.

The former associate members became provisional members with the same rights as those of a member, except that they may not vote at the General Assembly, nor nominate candidates to Council. The status of provisional membership may only be held for a limited period. To ensure that the provisional members develop and become members, a joint undertaking comprising the IOF, the regional working groups and the individual national federations in the regions is required.

Since the 2010 General Assembly, two new members, Montenegro and Cyprus, have joined the IOF, taking the membership to 73, out of which 52 are members and 21 provisional members.

The federation celebrates 50 years

On 21 May 2011, 50 years had passed since 10 national federations founded the IOF at a Congress in Copenhagen, Denmark. To mark this milestone, an anniversary logo was created and used throughout the year in all IOF publications and at all IOF Events.

The main celebration of the 50th anniversary took place in conjunction with the World Orienteering Championships in Savoie, France. Past IOF Presidents were invited to take part, and an anniversary video was launched at the event. The video was later shown at other IOF Events and it has also been published on the IOF website.

The anniversary was also marked by the publication of a commemorative edition of the IOF magazine Orienteering World and a Compass Project aimed at collecting compasses to be sent to new and developing orienteering nations all over the world.

To celebrate the IOF's 50th Anniversary and to encourage new federations to participate in the World Championships, the French Orienteering Federation took the initiative of staging, in co-operation with the IOF, a development clinic at the 2011 World Orienteering Championships in Chambéry, France. The clinic was organised by the IOF and financially supported by the French Orienteering Federation, the World Championships organisers and the French Ministry of Sports and attracted almost 50 participants from 12 nations.

Increased spread and visibility of IOF events

The efforts to secure a better geographical spread of major IOF events have begun to bear fruit. In foot orienteering, World Cup events will be held in New Zealand in 2013, and the World Masters Orienteering Championships in 2014 have been awarded to Brazil. Several other countries outside Europe have also shown interest in applying for future IOF foot orienteering events.

The first round of the 2012 World Cup in ski orienteering was organised in the United States and the third round was held in Kazakhstan. Kazakhstan has also been appointed organiser of the 2013 World Ski Orienteering Championships.

The efforts to secure TV coverage of major IOF events, primarily World Championships and World Cup competitions, have continued. In recent years, orienteering has had more exposure on TV than ever before and it has been clearly demonstrated that orienteering has the potential to be a successful TV sport. With a view to improving the knowledge required to ensure higher and consistent quality of orienteering productions, the Swedish orienteering federation invited representatives of national broadcasting companies, producers of TV sports productions and other individuals with technical or broadcast experience to a workshop on the production of elite orienteering competitions for broadcast TV. Following up on this workshop, representatives of the IOF and some national federations met to discuss the political aspects and possible models for financing TV productions of orienteering.

In 2010, the Council decided to introduce a new event quality assurance system where the organisers of major IOF events are supported by an Event Adviser team led by a Senior Event Adviser and composed of experts in different fields, together with the national controller. For The World Games and the World Orienteering Championships, the team is lead by the IOF Sports Director. For the World Championships in 2011 and 2012, the concept has been partially implemented, and it is being fully implemented from the 2013 World Orienteering Championships onwards.

Recently, the Council has initiated a general revision of the competition rules for all four disciplines, and a project group has been formed to take on this task. The group is expected to finalise its work in January 2013.

World Orienteering Championships in the future

The 2010 General Assembly supported Council's report on initiatives taken to develop a more diversified World Orienteering Championships programme, to limit the programme to a maximum of eight days and to introduce a mixed gender relay.

A working group was appointed to develop the programme and the group's proposal was circulated to the member federations for consultation. Based on the group's proposal and the views expressed by the member federations, the Council formulated a final proposal for discussion at the 2011 Presidents' Conference held in Chambéry, France. Listening to the views of the member federations, the Council further revised its proposal and the federations were asked to consult all interested parties, such as athletes, officials, sponsors, and media and to provide feedback to the IOF. As the opinions of the federations varied a great deal and had changed significantly since previous hearings, the Council concluded that even though there is consensus on the need for evolution and development, the federations' views on how to change the programme were too diverse and revealed significant differences in opinion between larger and smaller member federations. The Council therefore initially concluded that it was more important not to divide the IOF family than to make the changes that received support in Trondheim in 2010 and determined not to propose any changes to the current World Championships programme at the 2012 General Assembly.

A number of member federations subsequently submitted proposals to the General Assembly to change the World Championships programme. A modification of the current programme has been proposed by two federations, while four members jointly have proposed the introduction of a completely new concept with a traditional, forest based World Championship alternating annually with a Championship with sprint related, urban based, formats. The consequences of such a radical change are largely unknown and Council was not prepared to support this proposal. The other two proposals however contained several components that would contribute to the development of the current World Championships programme. The Council thus resolved to merge these proposals into one and put the proposal to the General Assembly for consideration.

The 2010 General Assembly appointed Italy organisers of the 2014 World Orienteering Championships and the 2014 World Trail Orienteering Championships. The 2013 World MTB Orienteering Championships were awarded to Estonia. The General Assembly authorised Council to appoint the organiser of the World Ski Orienteering Championships in 2013.

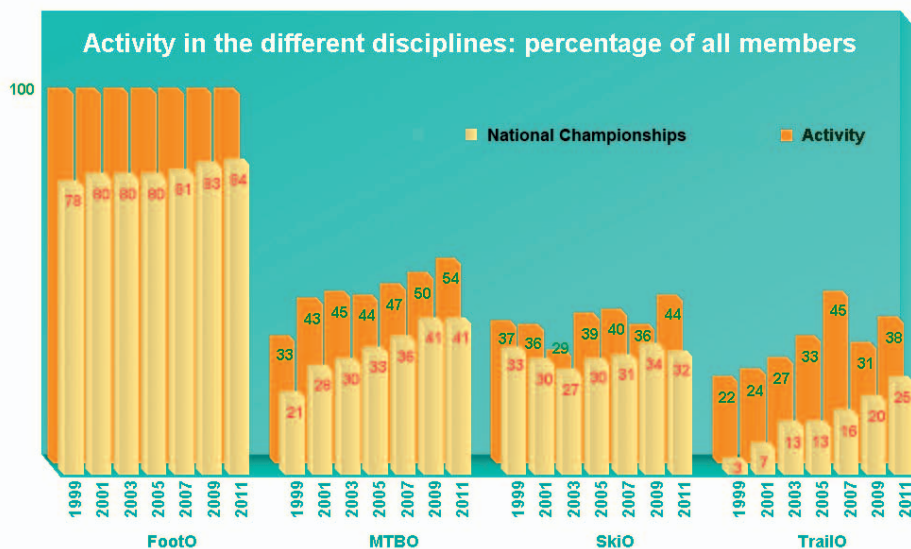

At its meeting held in August 2011, Council appointed Great Britain organiser of the 2015 World Orienteering Championships and awarded the 2013 World Ski Orienteering Championships to Kazakhstan. The appointment of the organiser of the 2015 World Trail Orienteering Championships has been deferred until the second half of 2012.

New discipline formats

In the past Congress period, the Foot Orienteering Commission has actively sought to develop the event formats. A middle distance format comprising a prologue and chase start will be tested at the World Cup in New Zealand. At the Swedish World Cup events, a knock-out sprint format with quarter-final, semi-final and final has already been tested and proved to be a spectator and TV friendly format that will be used in future.

The commission has developed and published guidelines for organisers of World Orienteering Championships and guidelines for Junior World Orienteering Championships organisers will be released in 2012. The guidelines for World Masters Orienteering Championships and World Ranking Events are updated annually to include recent experience. Course setting guidelines are being prepared and the commission is planning to organise a seminar on course setting for sprint events in conjunction with the 2012 World Orienteering Championships.

The focus of the work of the MTB Orienteering Commission has been on event calendar, map standards and event quality issues, but many other matters such as competition rules and world-wide development have also been addressed.

The MTB orienteering event calendar now comprises World Championships for both seniors and juniors, a World Cup and World Masters Championships. Initially, the World Cup consisted of four rounds but, from 2013, the number will be reduced to three. With a view to increasing the spectator friendliness of events, new competition formats such as mass start and mixed sprint relay are being experimented.

The map standards for MTB orienteering have been completely revised. Extensive guidelines for event organisers have been published and a handbook for event advisers is being developed. The MTB Orienteering Commission has published an online Event Evaluation Form to collect feedback from MTB Orienteering World Cup and World Championships events. The purpose is to secure, through the views of athletes, media and spectators a greater appreciation of the current quality of major MTB orienteering events.

The Ski Orienteering Commission has been successful in its efforts to spread the sport to new countries and to secure new organisers of major IOF ski orienteering events. The commission recognises the need to provide new event organisers with adequate training and guidelines. To this end, a handbook for event advisers has been developed, and a handbook for organisers of ski orienteering events is being prepared with the aim of improving event quality.

To further the Olympic goal, the commission has actively striven for the inclusion of ski orienteering in other multi-sports games such as the World Military Winter Games and the Winter Universiades.

The Trail Orienteering Commission, together with the Medical Commission, has updated the rules for eligibility for the paralympic class in IOF trail orienteering events. The new rules came into force in 2011. At the same time, the rules for the team competition at the World Trail Orienteering Championships were revised. The teams now comprise three competitors, with at least one competitor from the open, and one from the paralympic class. Since 2011, the commission has two medical experts handling eligibility applications.

The commission has continued to develop TempO with the aim of realising its introduction as an official format at the World Trail Orienteering Championships in Finland in 2013. The commission is also endeavouring to find an electronic punching system suitable for trail orienteering.

The Rules Commission has managed the ongoing revision of the competition rules and assisted the discipline commissions with the preparation of World Cup rules. The commission has also worked with the European Working Group on the revision and harmonisation of the rules for the European Championships. Two new guidance documents to assist jury members, event advisers and organisers have been published. Jury Guidelines gives detailed advice relating to jury responsibilities, and Cancelling a Competition outlines the circumstances in which it might be necessary to cancel (or void) a competition.

In the past Congress period, the Map Commission has published three documents, Guidelines for using non-offset printed maps in WREs, International Specification for Mountain Bike Orienteering Maps and a revised version of the International Specification for Ski Orienteering Maps. Efforts are being made to find new colours that can be reproduced by using 4-colour printing and are suitable for colour deficient orienteers. The work on the generalisation project, the ISOM revision project and the Print-Tech project continues. Assistance has been provided to Event Advisers of World Championships and the commission has also dealt with requests for rules deviations relating to maps for major IOF events.

An Athletes' Commission in trail orienteering was established in 2011. All four IOF disciplines now have an Athletes' Commission, providing the discipline commissions and Council with advice on matters relating to elite orienteering.

Educational seminars and conferences

The yearly High Level Event Seminar targets both appointed and potential future organisers as well as already licensed Senior Event Advisers and Event Advisers. The 2011 seminar was held in the Czech Republic and Italy hosted the 2012 seminar.

Seminars for the licensing of event advisers in foot orienteering have been held in Switzerland, Turkey, Brazil, Hungary, Sweden, Uruguay, Austria and Portugal. The seminars in Switzerland, Austria and Portugal were held jointly with MTB orienteering. In addition to these seminars, a separate seminar for event advisers in MTB orienteering was held in Denmark. Seminars for event advisers in ski orienteering were held in Norway, Kazakhstan, Sweden, USA and Ukraine, and a seminar for event advisers in trail orienteering was held in Sweden.

The 14th International Conference on Orienteering Mapping was held in conjunction with the 2010 World Orienteering Championships in Trondheim, Norway. The programme focused on the use of laser scanning for orienteering base maps. Another topic for discussion was the revision of the International Standard for Orienteering Mapping 2000. The 15th International Conference on Orienteering Mapping is to be held in Lausanne, Switzerland, and the main topic of this conference is Sprint orienteering mapping.

Orienteering and the environment

The Environment Commission has continued to monitor environmental matters and provide the latest advice. An interesting conclusion emerged from the analysis of a trampling study over a three-year monitoring programme following an event in Canada. In light of the study, it appears as if the trampling by large animals in the terrain far exceeded that from the event. The result is consistent with previous calculations comparing large animal trampling and that of orienteers.

Some measure of the environmental standing of orienteering across the world was obtained by means of a survey recently conducted by the Commission. The survey not unexpectedly showed that the impact of environmental concerns and restrictions on our sport varies considerably in different parts of the world. In some countries, the environmental constraints are negligible; in others there are substantial site and seasonal restrictions. The federations, however, deal with such matters in a responsible way, developing understandings with the various stakeholders. Scandinavia acts as a model for negotiation and good outcomes.

The results of the survey will be used as a basis for a charter and guidelines for environmentally friendly conduct of orienteering events.

Orienteering WADA Code compliant

During the past Congress period, the World Anti Doping Agency (WADA) conducted a review of the compliance of all anti-doping organisations with the World Anti-Doping Code. The official report was submitted to the WADA Executive Committee and Foundation Board in November 2011, and the IOF's anti-doping programme was considered to be fully compliant with the World Anti-Doping Code.

An athlete outreach programme was initiated in 2011. A stand with anti-doping information material was set up at an orienteering World Cup event and at the World Orienteering Championships.

In the past Congress period, a total of 141 in-competition tests were conducted at major IOF events in foot, MTB and ski orienteering. In addition, out-of-competition testing was carried out both by the IOF and by the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) on behalf of the IOF. No positive results were reported in any of the disciplines.

Orienteering on the international sports scene

The IOF is recognised by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and is a member of SportAccord, the Association of IOC Recognised International Sports Federations (ARISF), the International World Games Association (IWGA), and the International Masters Games Association (IMGA).

The Recognised International Federations have continued to be invited to a yearly individual meeting with representatives of the IOC Sports Department. The meeting is held in the framework of the SportAccord Convention, and each federation is asked to provide the IOC with an update on recent developments and future plans, and also receives sport specific feedback and advice from the IOC.

During the Congress period 2010–2012, IOF representatives have attended international conferences and seminars organised by multi-sports bodies, such as the yearly SportAccord Convention, the SportAccord IF Forum, General Assemblies and other meetings of the IWGA, the IMGA, SportAccord, the ARISF and the Association of Summer Olympic International Federations (ASOIF). IOF representatives have continued to be invited to attend the World University Orienteering Championships and the World Military Orienteering Championships. IOF Secretary General Barbro Rönnerberg continued to act as Secretary General and Treasurer of ARISF.

In 2010, the IOF submitted to the IOC its application for the inclusion of ski orienteering in the programme of the Olympic Winter Games in 2018. The IOC Executive Board, however, decided not to propose to the IOC Session any additional sports for the 2018 Games.

In 2011, the IOC initiated a review of the programme of the 2020 Olympic Games. The recognised international sports federations were asked to provide the IOC with information on any new developments since the previous programme review in 2007. The IOF was commended for its achievements, but orienteering did not make it onto the shortlist of sports to be further considered for possible inclusion in the 2020 Games.

In terms of participation in multi-sports games, ski orienteering reached a new milestone when it was admitted to the programme of the 7th Asian Winter Games in Astana-Almaty, Kazakhstan. Athletes from seven Asian nations participated in the ski orienteering events.

The International Military Sports Council (CISM) has decided to introduce ski orienteering as an official sport in the 2nd Military Winter World Games to be held in Annecy-Chamonix, France in 2013. Further, CISM has also determined to update its ski regulations and to include ski orienteering as an optional sport for the World Military Ski Championships.

In the past Congress period, the IOF has further intensified its cooperation with the International University Sports Federation (FISU) and sought to have ski orienteering included onto the programme of the Winter Universiades. The IOF will also apply to FISU for the introduction of World University Ski Orienteering Championships.

The preparations for the 9th World Games to be organised in Cali, Colombia, in 2013 are underway. The International World Games Association has allocated 40 men's and 40 women's places to the IOF. As at past World Games, the orienteering programme comprises three events, namely, a sprint, a middle distance event and a mixed gender team relay.

Management and finance

The Presidents' Conference convened in conjunction with the 2011 World Orienteering Championships in Chambéry, France. Representatives of 39 member federations attended the meeting held on 18 August 2011. The invited keynote speaker, Jan C. Fransoo, President of the International Korfball Federation, President of the Association of the IOC Recognised International Sports Federations (ARISF) and Vice President of SportAccord, made a presentation on the world of international sports and the Olympics. The two main topics on the Presidents' Conference agenda were Strategic Directions 2012–2018 and the future WOC programme.

During the past Congress period, the IOF Council has convened nine times. The meetings have been held in Trondheim, Norway; Chambéry, France; Helsinki, Finland (7 meetings); Lausanne, Switzerland and, in addition, Council held one meeting by means of electronic communication. On behalf of the Council, the Event Supervisory Board (ESB) took a total of 29 decisions relating to rules deviations and other event related matters. The decisions made by the ESB have been noted in, and regarded as part of, the minutes of the subsequent Council meeting.

An IOF Introductory Package has been compiled and is primarily aimed at providing Council and Commission members with comprehensive information on the structure, decision-making processes, working procedures and other issues relevant to their role.

Since 2010, the IOF has four members of staff, equivalent to 3.7 full time positions. Three employees, namely, the Secretary General, the Assistant Secretary General and the Office Assistant are based at the Secretariat in Helsinki, Finland and the Sports Director's base is Trosa, Sweden. Although the global economic crisis made the efforts to secure income from external sources even more challenging than before, the IOF was successful in securing a 3-year partnership agreement with the global water chemistry company Kemira. Measures to identify and attract further external partners continue.

An IOF Sponsor Guide has been produced for organisers of world championships. The guide is an integral part of the organiser's agreement and describes the principles for dealing with advertising, marketing and sponsorship issues related to the championships.

A new visual identity

In 2011, a new visual identity was created and introduced in IOF publications and other material. An anniversary issue of Orienteering World was published in celebration of the IOF 50 years.

A new website was launched at the beginning of 2011. The website has several new features such as a Photo Gallery providing the media with images of orienteering athletes and events, an Athlete of the Month article series, and a section for general information on orienteering. The IOF also has a Facebook page.

From the beginning of 2012, a new electronic newsletter Inside Orienteering replaced the former O-zine and the number of yearly issues increased from four to six.

A new strategic period dawns

The 2010–2012 Congress Period was the last covered by Strategic Directions 2006–2012. With the closure of the 2012 Ordinary General Assembly in Lausanne, Switzerland we enter a new 6-year strategic period. Strategic Directions 2012–2018 builds on the achievements of the past six years. Particular focus is placed on making the sport of orienteering more attractive to young people and on improving the scope for external income by ensuring increased media coverage, in particular TV coverage of major IOF events.

Auditor's Report

To the members of International Orienteering Federation, Kansainvälinen Suunnistusliitto ry.

We have audited the accounting records, the financial statements and the administration of International Orienteering Federation, Kansainvälinen Suunnistusliitto ry for the year ended on 31 December, 2010. The financial statements comprise the income statement, balance sheet and notes to the financial statements.

Responsibility of the Council

The Council is responsible for the preparation of the financial statements that give a true and fair view in accordance with the laws and regulations governing the preparation of the financial statements in Finland. The Council is responsible for the appropriate arrangement of the control of the Federation's accounts and finances, and it shall see to it that the accounts of the federation are in compliance with the law and that its financial affairs have been arranged in a reliable manner.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statements based on our audit. The Auditing Act requires that we comply with requirements of professional ethics. We conducted our audit in accordance with good auditing practice in Finland. Good auditing practice requires that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement, and whether the members of the Council are guilty of an act or negligence which may result in liability in damages towards the Federation or have violated the Associations Act or the statutes of the association.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation of financial statements that give a true and fair view in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Federation's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements, showing a surplus of 10.899,00 euro, give a true and fair view of the financial performance and financial position of the Federation in accordance with the laws and regulations governing the preparation of the financial statements in Finland.
